PRAY.

Pray that we would be faithful to the work of 1 Corinthians 3:7-9: "So neither he who plants nor he who waters is anything, but only God who gives the growth. He who plants and he who waters are one, and each will receive his wages according to his labor. For we are God's fellow workers. You are God's field, God's building."

At the end of the day, obedience is not measured by outcomes, and this verse reminds me of that. I want to be faithful with what the Lord has put before me, and I want to teach others to do the same.

PARTICIPATE

Build relationships with missionaries and their families.

Send notes of encouragement.

Learn birthdays and anniversaries, so you can send gifts and cards.

PROVIDE

Learn the ministry strategy and context, so you can provide relevant resources. Support a missionary financially.

About the Family

I grew up in Yukon, Oklahoma, and came to faith at a young age. Throughout my faith journey, I've been blessed by many people who have invested in my spiritual walk. I went to the University of Oklahoma (OU) for college, and the BCM was a big part of my time there. After graduation, I joined the staff at the OU BCM in 2021. Since then, I have gotten married, moved a few times for my husband Kobe's schooling, and served in a variety of ministry areas, including young Adults and missions. However, having the opportunity to return to college ministry feels a lot like coming home. I am so grateful that the Lord has put this work before me.

Kobe and I are both originally from Oklahoma, so we are both thrilled to be back here. Kobe is in a family medicine residency, and I am excited to be working with the BCM at the University of Tulsa.

About My Ministry

College ministry holds a special place in my heart. As I mentioned before, the Lord used the BCM there to radically grow me and refine my call to ministry and missions. At the University of Tulsa BCM, my focus is on engaging women in discipleship and building relationships with international students.
