CORAM DEO BAPTIST CHURCH

About the Family

I grew up as a pastor's kid in western North Carolina. I've spent my entire life deeply immersed in the church. I went to a Christian school and attended Pensacola Christian College, where I earned my B.A. in Graphic Design. I met my husband, Josh, in my last semester of college. He was studying pre-physical therapy.

After graduation, we got married in August of 2021, and Josh pursued his doctorate degree at Campbell University, bringing us to the Buies Creek area. I served as full-time staff at a church as the Children and Family Ministries Coordinator for three and one-half years before making the decision to pursue church planting through the North American Mission Board.

About My Church Plant

Located just south of Raleigh, N.C., the town of Angier is one of the fastest-growing small towns in the state. New neighborhoods, parks and commercial properties populate the landscape. With fast access to the nationally recognized Research Triangle Park (RTP), Angier is attractive to both young professionals and settling families.

I will be serving this church plant as the director of Sunday Operations. I handle the more practical matters of the Sunday morning worship gatherings. You'll find me leading teams from children's ministry to hospitality services. I have spent years serving the local church and making disciples at every level. I look forward to being part of Coram Deo Baptist Church, as I seek to serve the Lord through the gifts and experiences He has given me.
