EVERLASTING CHURCH

About the Family

Never would I have thought that God would call this California girl to New York City. My freshmen year of college I visited New York for the first time. At that moment in time I was completely unaware of what God would do in my life over those next four years. After doing Gensend in New York City (NYC) in the summer of 2018 I knew that God was changing my heart and calling me to NYC.

I can see how God has worked throughout my life to bring me to this moment. I am thankful for the godly generations of my family who have gone before me. I am especially thankful for my parents who set an example of what following Christ looks like and set an example of a life in ministry. Lastly, I am extremely thankful for a God I can trust and obey through the crazy adventures of life.

About My Church Plant

In college I learned more about the necessity of planting church. Through what I was learning, God shaped His call on my life. I desire to use my college major, intercultural studies, to reach internationals in America. We as Christians in America have a unique opportunity to share the gospel with people from other countries who might otherwise be harder to reach. New York City is a strategic place to plant a church because of its high volume of people and its diversity.

I am moving to work with Everlasting Church in The Bronx. The neighborhood where the church is located is extremely diverse and family orientated. God is doing great things through Everlasting Church in The Bronx, and I am looking forward to joining in the work. I am excited to build relationships with the locals and to ultimately share the gospel with the lost of NYC.
