

Jagger Brantley

CENTER CHURCH

About the Family

Hello, I am Jagger Brantley. I was born and raised in White House, Tennessee.

I moved to go to college at Carson-Newman University to get my B.A. in ministry. Upon graduation, I moved to Wake Forest, N.C., where I study currently. I am getting my M.A. in intercultural studies at Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary (SEBTS). This is where I met my fiancée and soon-to-be wife.

I am moving to Charlottesville, Va., to do a residency in spiritual formation at Center Church!

About My Church Plant

My role in the ministry is a residency in spiritual formation, where I will be partnering in our ministry called "rooted." The goal behind "rooted" is to build up strong leaders to disciple others.

Find out how you can

Pray.

Participate.

Provide.

PRAY.

- Pray this transition into a ministry role would go smoothly.
- Pray many people will join "rooted" to seek to lead others in the church.
- Pray there will be gospel opportunities throughout this process.
- Pray for discernment for Marly and me as we pray where God is calling us long-term overseas.

PARTICIPATE

Pray for the ministry and me as we embark on this wonderful journey in building up leaders to disciple well. Send me personal information, such as anniversaries, birthdays and any other big dates. I would love to keep up with you and celebrate things along the way.

PROVIDE

Learn the ministry strategy and context, so you can provide relevant resources. Support a missionary financially.