ALL PEOPLES CHURCH

About the Family

Jonathan and Chelsea are passionate about the gospel. They long for the gospel to be worked into every nook and cranny of every heart and that Christ would be worshiped and lifted up in every place by every people.

They live with their four children in Glendale Heights, Ill., a diverse, lower-income suburb west of Chicago.

Before planting a church, Jonathan served in youth and young adult ministry for nine years.

About My Church Plant

All Peoples Church was formed to be a Christ-treasuring movement committed to making disciples of all peoples. Glendale Heights is a western suburb of Chicago that is the third most diverse city or suburb in the state. Yet, it only has one other small, English-speaking evangelical church.

Since June 2020, Jonathan and Chelsea have been discipling and building their church virtually from scratch. The church is currently holding preview services and looking to launch weekly in September. Their Missional Community home group recently just multiplied!
