About the Family

I was born and raised in Syria and came to faith in 2006. For seven years, I served with the Bible Society in Syria, both in their library in Aleppo as well traveling to other cities for literature distribution. I also served with Baptist relief efforts for three years during the war in Syria.

In 2016, I came to Canada and in 2021, I started remote theology studies with Program for Theological Education by Extension (PTEE). I married Natalie in 2020. Natalie helps me with the administrative aspects of my ministry as well as accompanying me during family visits, especially when visiting females.

We have two kids, Nathanael and Elianna.

About My Church Plant

My ministry area is located in and around Montreal, an ethnically diverse metropolitan city of around 3 million people. Montreal is the second largest city in Canada and located in the province of Quebec. The emphasis of my outreach is to people from other faith backgrounds.

Since 2020, I have served with the ministry Hayat Afdal, an outreach that uses Facebook ads to offer Arabic Bibles to those interested. As part of this ministry, I have personally visited and delivered Bibles to individuals who responded to the ads. This ministry led me to meet several Algerian individuals. During 2024, I helped them to start a church in their native tongue. In addition, I regularly do open-air evangelism. I am actively involved in discipleship in several groups. Also in conjunction with Send Relief, I facilitate the support of 20 refugee families.
