ROCK CHURCH SOULARD

About the Family

My wife, Anna, and I are called to make disciples and build Christ-centered communities from the ground up. We come from very different backgrounds, but God's faithfulness has marked our marriage journey through seasons of redemption, obedience, wilderness, and restoration. Each step has shaped our calling and deepened our dependence on Him. We carry a burden for those on the streets and those far from God, and we are committed to reaching people beyond the walls of the church. We believe in a faith that is lived out daily—practical, Spirit-led, and rooted in truth. As the lead pastor of Rock Church Soulard, I serve alongside Anna and our core team with a clear mission: to reach the lost, equip believers, and send them out to live as faithful witnesses of Jesus Christ.

About My Church Plant

Rock Church Soulard is located in the heart of Soulard in St. Louis, Missouri, right alongside some of the city's most underserved communities—including East St. Louis, Illinois. God has truly positioned us at the intersection of real need and real opportunity. At our core, we exist to impact the community and make real disciples. This is not a place for "church as usual."

We are building a culture for people who are ready to live on assignment for King Jesus. We see the church as both a hospital for the hurting and a kingdom command center. People come to hear the Word, find healing, and be equipped for their calling. Here, believers are not just attending—they are being trained and sent out. We value real-life change, authentic relationships, love, unity, and accountability as we grow together and impact our city.
