About My Church Plant

We desire to plant a local, community-based church in Benicia, Calif. Located in the northeastern part of the San Francisco Bay Area, Benicia was founded in 1849 and became the state capital in 1853 until Sacramento became the capital 13 months later. It is a waterfront community that is home to a thriving industrial park with many artisans and craftsmen.

We seek to exalt Christ in His supremacy and sufficiency through disciple-making, equipping, commissioning and sending church planters, missionaries and pastors, while sharing the gospel with our local community in words and deeds of love.
